

Ramita Anand

Speaker's Profile

Inspiring your young girls to recognize their own potential and self-worth.

Sharing insights with your audience on ways to elevate girls, and how we can help them unleash their power to live remarkable lives.

Speaking Topics

- Preventative Educational Tools
- Girls in Education
- Inspiring Girls to Learn
- How Learning Differences can be a SUPERPOWER

As featured in & worked with:

expat LIVING lemon

Sassy Mama ^{SG}

 edify
learning spaces

That's Total
MOM SENSE

YOUR TEEN
for parents

About Ramita

Ramita is passionate about changing the narrative around girls' empowerment begins by speaking about it. Sharing insights with your audience on ways to elevate girls, and how we can help them unleash their power to live remarkable lives.

Born and raised in Vancouver, Canada, Ramita has almost 15 years of classroom-based teaching experience, including 5 years working in the learning support departments of diverse schools internationally.

A common thread that has emerged from each of her teaching experiences is the realization that children must be encouraged to pursue their dreams. A key component of this is keeping their confidence up, even if they encounter challenges.

Learning, researching, and developing new methods to support our youth has become Ramita's passion. She always works from a child-led approach, and engages with young girls from her own unique perspective, taking into account the multitude of pressures that may face them at school, at home, and socially.

Ramita's primary goal is to create a learning framework that will guide girls to foster their own superpowers, using techniques that she has developed in classrooms, in one-on-one teaching, and through her role as a parent.

Areas of Expertise

Ramita's passion and dedication to supporting our youth comes across in her high energy and motivational nature.

She regularly captures the attention of teachers, parents, and learning support staff with the expertise and experience she's cultivated from years of working in both public and private schools around the globe.

As the parent of a teen girl in a highly academic setting and a son who struggles with learning challenges, Ramita also understands the challenges parents face when trying to choose the right educational path for their children.

The experiences that Ramita herself faced as a young woman were instrumental in shaping how she views the world today. The loss of her mentor and role model to cancer occurred when she was just 13 years old. Despite the tragedy and personal challenges she faced, she was able to succeed during her teenage years because of the confidence and belief in herself that was inspired by her mother.

Areas of Expertise

Ramita would be thrilled to be invited to speak to parents, teachers and young girls who may not have the good fortune to have this type of positive influence in their lives already.

Building a healthy and balanced life doesn't always seem possible, especially when you're at your most vulnerable and impressionable stage of development. Ramita's journey has taught her to persevere, and to use education, honesty, and exploration to find the strength and optimism that's necessary to face each day with new courage.

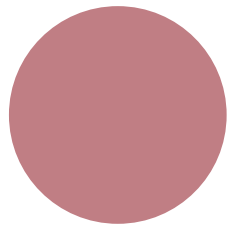

As she shares personal stories of her evolution and growth, she will inspire your young girls to recognize their own potential and self-worth.

Other Media

In addition to her speaking engagements, Ramita loves to connect with educators and parents through her newest project, The Elevate Podcast.

This brand-new podcast is full of conversations with thought leaders, activists, innovators, and educators on how we can all work together to empower girls.

Beyond the Stage

Ramita will do everything possible to ensure your event is a success.

Before the event, she will be in touch to familiarize herself with the event, the audience, and the organizer's goals for each session.

Ramita loves to personally engage with audience members. After the talk is delivered, she will make herself available to answer questions from audience members or organizers, and can also share additional resources and tools so they're able to engage more deeply with the ideas presented.

Logistics & Booking Info

Together, we can elevate our girls so they can achieve their full potential.

Ready to book Ramita for your next event? Contact her directly on her website, or via email.

Ramita Anand

<https://www.elevate-ra.com/contact/Ramita.Anand@elevate-ra.com>